

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presents the conclusion and suggestion to the research finding and discussion. The suggestion is addressed to the institution, the researcher ,and the further research.

5.1 Conclusion

It can be conducted that:

Group discussion is one of the technique or strategy that can be used to teach procedure text, the implementation of group discussion technique conduct in several steps. Group discussion technique help them to build their imagination and it was successful. The implementation of group discussion technique they are as follows, choose the topic, discuss with the group, the group students write the procedure text based on the topic, give the score from the students writing task. The use of group discussion technique can help the students writing composition.

5.2 Suggestion

The following suggestion are addressed to the institution , English teacher, and further researcher.

It is suggested that the institution SMPN 2 Gempol should support the teachers' need in conducting the learning in English class, that is the technique used by the teachers and students

For English teacher, it is suggested that they should use group discussion technique as one of the alternatives for increasing the students average score in writing procedure text. To the future researcher, it is suggested they should conduct similar study in other levels of the students to see that group discussion as technique teaching writing can increase the students average score and can give positive effect in their learning process.