NO	DATA FINDINGS
	HOW HUMAN BEING TREATS PANTHERS
1	“GRANDPA (Weak) ...Replenish the earth... (Pause) May humans forever remain 'noble savages', living in harmony with nature.” (Larson, 1989: 2).
2	“MICHELE (Goes to him. Looks at clipboard) What're you up to? GRANDPA (Looks at clipboard) I think it's time to check up on one of the panthers. (Searches) MICHELE Which one?”(Larson, 1989:3).
3	Grandpa : He's been around since I've been caretaker. He's such an ornery critter. (Smiles) It's like an old friend that you bicker with a lot. (Frowns a little) He's getting pretty old, though. I don't think we'll tranquilize him this time. (Pause) I'm afraid he hasn't got much time left (Larson,1989: 4).
4	Michele : Well, I'm glad I'm done with it. Now, I can finally do what I've dreamed of doing: work with you to save the panthers (Larson, 1989: 8).
5	Michele : I'm glad you didn't. Saving the panther has been one of the most important things in my life since mom passed away (Larson, 1989:8).
6	MICHELE Come on, live a little. Your granddaughter's a graduate and now your employee. (Bowing) A servant to the Florida Panther (Larson, 1989: 5).
7	GRANDPA (Picks panther up) Useless? What do you think gives flowers water, and keeps plants

	alive?  (She shrugs)  Where do you think rivers get their water? Some animal's favorite thing is rain (Larson, 1989: 34).
8	GRANDPA  (Takes panther)  Humans aren't the center of everything. We can't have everything our way. We're a small part of the world around us. We must share with the other creatures of the earth and take only that which we need. (Larson, 1989: 36)
9	YOUNG MICHELE  But, you're helping them aren't you, Grandpa?  GRANDPA  I'm trying, but it's hard when no one wants to help. (Larson, 1989: 23)
10	GRANDPA  You're quite the little actress. It will come in handy when you help me to save the Florida panthers.  YOUNG MICHELE  (Brightens)  You want me to help?  GRANDPA  Nothing would make me happier (Larson, 1989: 25).
11	GRANDPA  And you left all that behind.  MICHELE  No. The panthers are my life. I want so badly to save them, but without you, I was afraid I couldn't do it (Larson, 1989: 52).
12	Young Michele : I have decided to devote my life to saving the Florida panther, just like you.  Young Michele : Oh, no. I want to help the panther. (Hugs stuffed animal) I'll do everything I can to help them recover from being in trouble of disappearing (Larson, 1989: 47).
13	Grandpa and Michele : There once was a trapper, stricken by Florida's Disease which was thought to have no cure. He wanted to spend his final days doing what he loved the most.  GRANDPA  (In distaste)  Trapping.  MICHELE  So he sold everything, packed his gear, and set out into the wilderness. After a few days, he came upon a Florida panther killed by one of his traps.

GRANDPA

(Appalled)

What?!

MICHELE

Wait. Listen.

GRANDPA

(Pouting)

Fine, I'll be quiet and listen up.

MICHELE

Making the best of the situation, he started a fire, skinned the panther, and cooked it.

GRANDPA

(Angrily)

Fiend.

MICHELE

(Ignoring him)

His feast was a fitting last meal, in his opinion, and he got the most out of it that he could.

GRANDPA

Stewing)

That dirty, rotten...

MICHELE

So he made a mixture with the panther's blood and bone marrow which happened to succeed in soothing the aches and pains of the disease. One week after the disease should have taken his life, he walked out of the forest, cured.

GRANDPA

I hope they locked him up. The penalty for killing a Florida panther...

MICHELE

He wasn't punished.

GRANDPA

(Furious)

That's crazy!

MICHELE

Instead, they presented him with a patent on his new drug and set him up with a grant to conduct more research.

GRANDPA

(Crossing downstage)

I can't believe this!

MICHELE

The only thing standing in his way is the caretaker of the Florida panthers. (He stops and turns to look at her) Yes. You're the only one who is holding him back.

GRANDPA

	Good  MICHELE  Please take the drug.  GRANDPA  Never! (Larson, 1989: 40-45).
14	Young Michele : I gave those boys the speech of their lives. I did make the others feel guilty and they backed off, but one of them became more violent with the cat. I grabbed the cat away from him and he pushed me. So, I turned and punched him in the nose (Larson, 1989: 67).
15	Michele : In every beast of the earth, In every bird of the sky, In every living creature upon the earth, there is life.(Larson, 1989: 67).
16	MICHELE  The panther's numbers keep growing. Within a year they are expected to hit fifty. (Larson, 1989: 63).
17	Michele : I helped deliver a baby panther today. It was so exciting seeing the first of a new generation being born. It gives you so much hope. (Larson, 1989: 62).
THE CONSEQUENCES THAT HUMAN GOT
18	Michele : Congress also agreed to expand their territory to compensate for the growing numbers (Larson, 1989: 63).
19	Michele : You'll like this. A group in the Pacific Northwest is using your Florida panther program as a model for their fight to save the Spotted Owl (Larson, 1989: 64).
20	MICHELE  After raising a ruckus, I was able to get his research grant taken away. Then, he was jailed shortly after it was discovered he caused the death of a panther(Larson, 1989: 63).
21	Michele : Right here in my hands, I hold before me a special National Geographic about the Florida panther and the man that saved them (Larson, 1989: 65).
22	Michele : They made me an advisor, too. It's exciting to watch the process all over again; watching your programs at work somewhere else (Larson, 1989: 64).
23	Michele : I know you've always dreamed about this. You said you would know you had succeeded when you made the cover of National Geographic.

GRANDPA

(Smiles)

Yes, I did.

MICHELE

You did it, Grandpa. You saved them. All that you have done will be remembered forever, and forever will be just a little bit longer because of what you have done.

(Opens magazine)

"His fight has saved the Florida Panther and has given us a model to follow so that we may also replenish the earth." (Larson, 1989: 66).
