

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

This novel that is written by Helen Adams Keller through Braille then rewrite by John Albert Macy with English. The novel entitled The Story of My Life is the true story based on the history of Helen Adams Keller that contains one of the concept of psychology, which are the personality and the structure of personality. That concept is faced by the main character in that novel, her name is Helen. Based on the first statement of problem in the previous chapter, the researcher concludes that she has some personalities which are a proficient, a confident, a brave and a struggle woman. Many aspects that influence her personalities included her teacher who constructs her personality indirect. Her personalities influence the structure of personality which are the id, the ego and the superego.

One of the literary works that has the structure of personality is Helen Adams Keller. Based on the second statement of the problem, finally the researcher concludes that the id appear to develop when she is still child. The id indicates with her anger and bitterness culminates. Helen does this because she does not get what she wants, such as the ability to seeing and hearing like other people. Her anger and bitterness such as kicking and screaming to other people. The state of Helen Keller's id happens because she controls the encouragement that operates in the unconscious mind. The relationship between the ego and the id in her mind happens because her emotion is incompatible with her thought. The ego gets energy and pressure from the id that her ego which are restrain and control the encouragements until her pleasure caused by the id cannot be released. Then the ego involve the anxiety through her condition that affected by her superego until Helen Keller's id cannot appear. But the id also can be appear when she overflows the anxiety with a passion to learn about many things. Then her superego as seen from Helen do something like other people that affected by her personality and people around her such as her family and her teacher. So, that is the conclusion which is taken by the researcher about this research.
