

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSSION AND SUGGESTION

The last chapter discusses about the conclusion of the study and suggestion for student at Muhammadiyah University Surabaya and other researcher related the result of the study.

5.1 Conclusion

According to the result of the study, the researcher concludes that the migrant community in district Taman Sidoarjo also did speech accommodation. The data shows that the migrant communities converge and diverge their speech to the Indonesian Language and to the Surabaya Javanese variety. There are some motivations beyond those have already mentioned before. The first is the motivation using speech convergence. First reason is the consideration of Surabaya Javanese variety as a higher variety than migrant language variety. This might trigger them to do convergence toward the addressee. The second reason is the intelligibility. They wanted to make addressee understand about what they were talking about, so they used Indonesian language and Surabaya Javanese. It is also a way to prevent misinterpretation by addressee. The next is the Migrant Community who are from outside Surabaya, they want to communicate efficiently and they want to increase the supportiveness and intelligibility with the interlocutors.

There are also motivations behind speech divergence. The result shows that the motivations of speech divergence are varied. The first reason is they can't leave a dialect from their hometown. Second reason the addressee want to learn about migrant language. The last reason is the peer influence. The migrant community stated that the most of them live in Surabaya with family and friend from hometown also. So, they are used to use their region language variety than Surabaya Javanese Variety.

5.2 Suggestion
